

By accepting "Enable 'Copy my last order' for next time" you agree to the following terms & conditions:

1) What data is stored if I accept?

- Your menu contents from the order you are now completing, will be stored in our database for 3 months.
- By "menu contents" we refer to all selections made regarding the food itself (menu items, quantities, spiciness selection, etc.).
- NO PERSONAL DATA (your name, address, email, phone, etc.) will be stored in this way – only the menu contents.

2) How do I copy the menu next time I order?

- These menu contents can be copied to future orders by using the "Copy My Last Order?" function at the Take Away page on bindia.dk.
- All you have to do is provide the same email address that you used when you accepted "Enable 'Copy my last order' for next time".

3) For how long can I keep copying the menu?

- The menu contents is stored for 3 months in our database, unless overwritten by accepting a new "Enable 'Copy my last order' for next time" using the same email address in the meantime (which will then be deleted after 3 months).
- We therefore recommend accepting "Enable 'Copy my last order' for next time" every time you order, so your menu contents are always available for your next order (given that your next order is placed within 3 months).
- The menu contents can however be copied multiple times (for different orders), for as long as the data is stored (maximum 3 months).

4) Can anyone copy the details of my order?

- The menu contents are connected to the email address, so anyone using the same email address in the "Copy My Last Order?" function at the Take Away page on bindia.dk can copy the menu contents saved to that email address.
- However, as mentioned in the above point 1), no personal data is stored in this way, so unless you have a reason for not wanting your menu contents to be available for people that know the name of your email address, you're perfectly safe.

5) I noticed that my name / email / phone / etc. was pre-entered in the web shop checkout

- If you have noticed any of your personal information being pre-entered in the checkout page of our take away web shop, it is because of cookie settings.
- This means that the data is stored STRICTLY in that specific browser on your device, and this has nothing to do with accepting "Enable 'Copy my last order' for next time".